Assignment 9

Make a machine vision application that automatically counts the number of eyes on the dice based on blob counting. (this problem can also be solved with the Hough transform; see the installation document for the solution with the Hough transform).